HHSS honours top students

A capacity audience packed the Haliburton Highlands Secondary School auditorium last Saturday as students lined up to receive scholarships and honours at the school's annual awards night.

In his invocation speech, Reverend Ward Taylor talked of the importance of the search for knowledge, quoting the words of Solomon from the bible.

Then Principal Andrew Hemphill welcomed the crowd. "Tonight is a celebration of success," he said. "It is an exemplification of the maxim that if a job is to be done, it should be done well."

Mr. Hemphill thanked the staff, the school board, and the community for contributing to the success of the evening.

Making his chairman's remarks, Haliburton County Scholarship Fund chairman, Mr. Robertson Herlihey, also thanked everyone involved in the awards night: the students, the staff; the scholarship council and the donors of awards.

Awards were presented to the following:

Minister pleased with road tour findings

County Warden Harry Davis and Minister of Transportation and Communications, Ed Fulton discuss the route of their county roads tour.

After his annual tour of Haliburton County roads last Friday, Ontario Minister of Transportation and Communication Ed Fulton said he is pleased with the way the county has spent its MTC roads subsidy.

The ministry regularly contributes a large part of all municipal and county roads budgets in Ontario. In 1986, Haliburton received approximately $2.8 million from the MTC - or 80 per cent of its total roads budget.

"I'm satisfied we're getting good value for our money," Fulton said in an interview after his tour. "There's certainly more work ahead, but so far I think the roads department staff and workers have done a commendable job."

The tour started Friday morning at the County Building in Minden and covered a loop extending to Eagle Lake, Haliburton

Lake and Wilberforce. The route included county roads 1,3,4,6,14,16,18 and 19.

Acting as hosts were Victoria-Haliburton MPP John Eakins, Haliburton County Warden Harry

Davis, members of the county roads committee Sinc Nesbitt, Keith Tallman, Dalton MacDonald and Bob Vick, and county roads engineer Bill Obee.

The purpose of the visit - it usually happens about once a year - is to give the ministry a chance to see how its subsidy is being spent and county roads officials the opportunity to discuss future projects. Or, as Warden Harry Davis puts it, "to show what we've done, what we expect to do and what money we'll need to do it with."

Davis said he is very happy with the way the tour went. "The minister was most impressed with the work that's been done," he commented. "These days, more than ever, the ministry is concerned about how its tax dollar is being spent. And rightly so, because its taxpayers' money."

Thieves hit area cottages

Cottages were once again the target of intruders during the past week as a number of occurrences were brought to the attention of the officers at the Minden detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police.

Among the break-ins was one reported October 25 by a Toronto man. His cottage on Eagle Lake had been entered sometime during the past week. Taken from the building were several bottles of liquor and a portable stereo unit. The value of the missing property was estimated at $335.

Subsequent to that investigation, police discovered that six other cottages in the same area had been broken into. Access to the cottages had been gained by smashing windows or opening those left unlocked. An initial estimate of the damage in these break-ins has been set at $300. It is not known at this time if any property was stolen from these cottages. Constable Mike Legge is the investigating officer.

A cottage owner from Markham reported that a 35 horsepower motor had been removed from his boat. The boat had been pulled up behind the cottage. The value of the missing property is estimated at $1800.

Constable Jim Morris is the investigating officer.

Into the ditch

The driver of a car involved in an accident on Highway 121 west of Haliburton, has been charged with careless driving and failing to give a sample of his breath for analysis when requested to do so by the police. Charged is 24 year old Craig A. Davis of Kinmount.

According to the police, the vehicle driven by Davis, was westbound when it left the highway, entered the ditch and struck a hydro pole.

Both the driver and a passenger were taken to Haliburton Hospital for treatment of injuries.

The accident, which occurred October 25, was investigated by Constable Wayne Smith.

Pair injured

The driver and a passenger in a truck were injured when the vehicle left the South Road in Monmouth Township and collided with a tree. The accident occurred October 26.

The driver, Kevin Clarry of Markham, and a passenger, were taken to Haliburton Hospital for treatment of injuries and released.

The accident was investigated by Constable Boyd Jarvis.

Firearm stolen

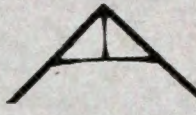

A rifle and shotgun left lying in the back seat of a car in a grocery store parking lot were stolen October 28.

A Wilberforce area resident had left his two firearms and a quantity of ammunition in the car when his wife drove the vehicle to a local grocery store. She emerged from the store to discover the items missing. Value of the stolen goods is estimated at $1086.

Constable Gary Chapman is the investigating officer.

Home improvement funds available in Lutterworth

Lutterworth residents can now apply to the township for home improvement loans. Under a new program offered by the Canada Mortgage and Housing Corporation, Lutterworth has been allocated funds totalling $64,125 to be made available to homeowners for "the improvement of existing housing stock."

The agreement with the federal body - according to which the township will act as loan agent - was signed at the October 16 council meeting.

Under the Residential Rehabilitation Assistance Program, Lutterworth now has $39,125 from which to make repayable loans and $25,000 for forgivable loans.

Though the money was allocated on May 30, the township was not designated as an agent until October 16.

Homeowners who hope to make improvements such as adding insulation or building a new roof can apply for the loans, but already, says Lutterworth Clerk-Treasurer Wayne Hughes, there's a waiting list.

Although applicants must submit their requests to the township, evaluations will be carried out by the Canada Mortgage and Housing Corporation.

Another alternative for Lutterworth residents who want to improve their homes, says Hughes, is the Ontario Home Renewal Plan, for which the township is also an agent.

Acid rain report

An unusual occurrence took place during the latest reporting period, unusual for this year anyway. There was no rain during the period and so there are no statistics to offer from the Ministry of Environment acid rain testing station in Dorset.

New program assists elderly

The Haliburton, Kawartha and Pine Ridge area has recently joined a growing list of Ontario centres served under a new program for the care of the frail elderly and physically handicapped adults in their own homes.

Community and Social Services Minister John

Sweeney and John Eakins, MPP Victoria-Haliburton announced in a joint statement that the Integrated Homemaker Program will be introduced to the area to offer further assistance to the elderly, who form 19% of the population, along with physically handicapped adults.

Sweeney emphasized the new program "will go a long way to helping frail elderly and physically handicapped adults to continue to live in their own homes as well as assisting family members who are trusted with their care."

Sweeney emphasized the program is designed to supplement, not replace, existing family and volunteer services. The service in Haliburton, Victoria and the Northumberland Counties could cost up to a million dollars a year.

Eakins welcomed the program to his area and said, "the concept will help many of the seniors who were finding it increasingly difficult to live in their own homes."

The Integrated Homemaker Program will be developed and managed by the Director of Home Care in the area along with the Medical Officer of Health. It will operate through the Haliburton, Kawartha Pine Ridge District Health Unit. The addition of this program brings to 16 the number of centres in Ontario now served by the scheme at a cost of up to 20 million dollars per year.

Minden postmaster intends retirement

Minden Postmaster Dorothy Rowe has announced her intention to retire from the postal service. She noted that the decision was taken with regret since she had spent 21 years with the postal service.

She will resign her post December 27.

Mrs. Rowe has been Minden's Postmaster for the past three and a half years. She was a clerk at Markham for four years and Postmaster at Milliken before coming to Minden. "I have enjoyed my years here, thanks to the work ethic and loyalty of the present staff," she commented. "Being Postmaster offered the opportunity to meet so many people, some of whom have become good friends."

The Rowes, her husband Cecil is a retired postal transportation manager, plan to continue to live in Minden. "...and just enjoy life and hopefully catch up on the things we never seem to have time for."

The position of postmaster will be filled by competition throughout the district. Until that process takes place, there is no way of knowing who the next postmaster will be.

The county's best

The students, parents and teachers of Haliburton Highlands Secondary School can be justifiably proud of the achievements enumerated at ceremonies Saturday night. The awards evening recognized students who had excelled not only academically, but who had contributed to the sense of community at the school and some who never missed a day of classes.

The parade of students represented an outstanding array of talent and dedication. The rewards, prizes and trophies were tangible evidence of the esteem and importance other members of the community attach to their efforts.

We congratulate these achievers and salute them for being among the county's best. May the initiative which has brought them to these achievements stay with them through their academic year and follow them in their careers.

Bonehead legislation

by Arthur Black

"The law is a hard, queer thing. I do not understand it."

So spake Poundmaker, a Cree chieftain who scrapped with the Royal North West Mounted Police on the prairies about a century ago -- and lost. Poundmaker got three years in the slammer for his actions, served his time and died a free man -- though somewhat bewildered by his brush with White Man's law.

Well, he's not alone. A lot of people of various pigmentation and political persuasions have been bemused, befuddled and totally buffaloed by the arcane workings of the legal system. I don't mean to impugn the full majesty of jurisprudence or anything, but...well, let's face it -- the business of making laws has been a hit and miss affair over the years and our lawmakers have pulled some fairly colossal boners in the process.

Dick Hyman knows that better than most mortals.

He's a newspaper columnist and magazine writer who has made a career of tracking down and ferreting out what he calls "bonehead legislation." For twenty two years he produced a syndicated feature called "It's the Law". Now he's called the best of the worst and put them together in a book called The Columbus Chicken Statute.

The book is a compilation of the more asinine laws,

It's a sight that makes you wince, then stare with fascination. Before you stands a craggy hawthorn, "decorated" as though for Christmas. But on closer inspection, the 'ornaments' are meadow voles and mice, impaled on 5 cm thorns. Nearby, another hangs, impaled on barbed wire.

Shrikes are a group of intriguing, predatory birds, responsible for these decorations, most often seen in fall or winter. Like hawks and owls, they feed on mice, occasional small birds and even large insects. But unlike hawks and owls, they're song birds, with weak robin-like feet suitable for perching but not grasping. So they can't pick up prey in talons or hold it there while it's eaten.

Instead, shrikes have a heavy, hooked beak, which they use first to stun and then to pick up their struggling prey. More elaborate than the hawk's beak, the shrike's has a notch which helps to hold the prey while it is carried to a nearby thorn (or wire barb) and impaled.

It's prey transfixed, the shrike can tear the animal into bite-sized pieces. (Birds lack teeth and don't chew their prey). If prey is abundant, the shrike may have several mice impaled, like frozen larders, awaiting the birds needs.

Shrikes are easily recognized. In addition to the bill, their black and white, vaguely resembling a grey jay or robin in size and build. A stark-black mask, wings and tail contrast with the even-grey above and white below.

There are actually 2 different shrikes in Canada, both of which enter Ontario -- but only at different times of the year. The Northern Shrike breeds in a belt approximately along the treeline from northern Manitoba to B.C., and across northern Quebec and Labrador. It winters in agricultural Ontario, along shrubby and treed fence rows which provide both cover and lookout perches to survey the mouse-rich fields alongside. The other is the Loggerhead shrike -- a slightly smaller version of the Northern which summer breeds in those same southern Ontario fence rows, and winters in the central and southern U.S.

Neither shrike was ever particularly abundant but both played a valuable role in controlling pests and could be readily located.

Fifteen years ago, the loggerhead was in good shape, breeding fairly

30th anniversary stirs memories of uprising

by John Greenwood

Nick Lehoczky is grateful to the Village of Haliburton. Since he and his family first arrived in the Highlands seven years ago, he's done well for himself.

He started out as an instructor at Sir Sam's Ski Area. A year later he opened a ski store on Haliburton's main street, soon branching out into wind surfing as that sport became popular. And last March, Lehoczky opened the Goulash Pot restaurant where he cooks up such Magyar-Canadian delicacies as the Langos Burger, a specially spiced meat patty served in a unique deepfried Hungarian bun. Already he's thinking about franchising the dish.

But it hasn't always been that easy. At the end of November 1956, Lehoczky was driving a truck through his native Hungary as fast as he could toward the Austrian border, hiding during the day and travelling only at night on the roughest country roads to avoid Russian roadblocks and patrols. Concealed in the back were his wife, his two small daughters, and 25 other men, women and children from his village.

The Soviets, who had just put down an uprising in the country, were everywhere, so what should have been a five hour trip, became a deadly game of hide and seek that lasted two days and covered the most roundabout route. Somewhere along the way, they knew they'd probably be stopped. "But we didn't care," remembers Lehoczky. "We had machine guns and we were ready to die."

As it turned out they were stopped, but whether because the sentry believed their forged papers or because he guessed at the contents of the truck and had no taste for shoot-outs with children, he waved them on.

And when at last they crossed into Austria - the final thousand feet was climbed on foot - "We were shouting and singing so loud," says Lehoczky, "that if any border guards had seen us, they probably would have run away."

Thursday, October 23, was the thirtieth anniversary of the Hungarian Uprising. On that day in 1956, a crowd of 200,000 students and workers demonstrating in the streets of Budapest tore down the statue of Stalin and began fighting in the streets with the secret police. Soon the uprising spread to the rest of the country.

To understand the excitement and hope surrounding these few short days, Nick recounts, you have to realize that since the Russians moved into Hungary at the end of the Second World War, they had done everything possible to break the spirit of the Hungarian people.

Soviet forces dismantled the country's factories for shipment back to Russia; they imprisoned Hungary's leaders; private property was confiscated and the capitalist system under which the country had prospered, was wiped out and replaced by an inefficient and unpopular Communist system; and the newspapers and radio stations were taken over and incorporated into the Soviet propaganda machine.

When the Second World War ended, Lehoczky was a 19 year old high school student who dreamed of going on to university to study engineering as his father had done. But the Russian occupation changed all that. As a member of the middle class, he was barred from university and prevented from finding a job. His memories of those days are vivid and bitter.

"In 1945, the Soviet military took our house. There were eight people in my family at that time. But we were lucky because my mother was friends with one of the two women who lived next door and they let us move in with them. But the house only had one bedroom so that meant ten people all sleeping in the same room. I don't think I saw a single smile from anyone in my family for the next ten years."

Life under the Soviet regime, he says, was barbaric. Russian soldiers who were stationed throughout the country to keep the people in order, took whatever they wanted. When it suited them, they killed.

"Terrible things were happening all the time," Lehoczky remembers. "Many of the soldiers were very poor in their own country and had never seen some of things we took for granted. Having been told by their leaders that people with property had stolen it from the working class, they believed they could take from middle class Hungarians - which was most of us - whatever they wanted."

"They liked clocks especially. If a Russian saw you wearing a watch he wanted, he'd take it away. Sometimes you'd see soldiers in the street with wrist watches covering their arms and legs."

"I once heard about a watchmaker who was asked by a soldier to make copies of an alarm clock he'd Nick Lehoczky has done well over the past seven years in Haliburton County. The Goulash Pot is his most recent enterprise.

Lehoczky points out some of the sites along his escape route from Russian-occupied Hungary in a book of photographs.

found. Except the Russian wanted the copies smaller than the original. When the watchmaker told him it couldn't be done, the Russian shot him."

"Often they'd rape women as well. Often you'd see young girls who had made themselves up to look like old women just so they wouldn't be attractive."

"In Russia at that time, few people had ever seen a flush toilet but in Hungary they were common. When the soldiers first came, they thought toilets were for cleaning things. One day a soldier went into a man's house to cook a fish he'd caught for dinner. He cleaned it in the toilet and when he accidentally knocked the chain, the fish went down the drain. So he shot the man for having a sink that steals."

But the worst thing about the Russian occupation, says Lehoczky, was the poverty. Hungarian farmers had all been forced onto inefficient collectives and any surplus was sent back to Russia. Everywhere there were lineups at food stores, and no one could afford the prices anyway. "People were so hungry they'd betray you for a crust of bread. Hungary in those days was the only place where a mouth was worth more than a life."

But for a few short months before the uprising, it appeared the Russians were loosening their grip on Hungary. And had the West's attention not been distracted by Egypt's takeover of the Suez Canal on October 29, the Soviet attack on Budapest six days later, might have been prevented.

"We thought it was going to work at first," says Lehoczky. "Everyone thought it would work. Each night on Radio Free Europe the West was saying, 'if you rise up against the Russians, we will support you.' Each night the message was the same, but when the time finally came, we got nothing.

"So after the Russians moved in in November, we were very disappointed. Our allies had let us down. All we had was a dead leader and no country. That's why my friends and I decided to get out and even with our children, we weren't afraid to die."

At this time Lehoczky was working as a truck driver at a small town not far from Budapest where his wife and children were living. There had been a few close calls, but he was surviving. When the uprising failed, he knew it was time to get out.

"I just got into my truck," he remembers, "and drove to Budapest." There he picked up his family and all the friends who could fit.

On the final thousand foot climb to the border, Lehoczky and his family carried with them everything they could take. "We were all wearing our suits and two heavy coats. I held

This Wednesday is the all important annual meeting for the Haliburton Highlands Chamber of Commerce. If you haven't already gotten your ticket or have not planned to attend, please try to make the effort to get out. If there are table spaces still available, tickets may be purchased at the door at Wig-A-Mog Inn.

The keynote speaker will be John Eakins, our own Minister of Tourism. He will be speaking on the new Destinations East program. This is an exciting new program designed to help those in the tourism industry. To explain this new program, there will be a workshop on November 5 at PineStone Inn. Chamber members can sign up for the workshop at the annual meeting.

At our Board meeting on October 23, we picked the Highlander of the Year award. This will be a surprise announcement at the annual meeting. Another important date to keep in mind is our fund raising dance on November 21. We are planning some great door prizes, including, I believe, a weekend for two, leaving that night to a Toronto hotel. So bring your bags in the car, you might need them. More details on this event in the coming weeks.

commonly wherever border-line agricultural land was allowed to go fallow and grow into an "old field" combination of grasses, herbaceous vegetation and hawthorn or apple. It was particularly common across the edge of the shield, in a broad belt through Orillia, Peterborough, Madoc, Westport and Belleville. Pockets also occurred, notably the Ottawa Valley.

For some reason that we still don't understand, the loggerhead began a precipitous decline about a decade ago. This has been well documented by the Ontario Breeding Bird Atlas project of the Federation of Ontario Naturalists (FON). Conducted in co-operation with the Long Point Bird Observatory, it has involved over 1800 volunteers and 100,000 hours of field research, to provide detailed information toward conservation.

Through this intensive work, estimates put the 1983 population at 50-100 pairs. By 1986, the estimate was down to half that or less.

There has been speculation that changing pesticides might be the culprit. Loggerheads act as bioaccumulators, feed on mice in the fields when pesticides are applied and move south to feed on more mice in other fields during our winter. Northerns (which appear to be doing alright) only feed near agriculture for part of the year, and then only in winter (by which time many pesticides have broken down.)

The FON is trying to encourage analysis. If it is a pesticide problem, the shrike may be an early warning indicator (like Bald Eagles - DDT and Gulls - PCBs) of imminent problems for other creatures and the ecosystem upon which we all depend.

regulations, ordinances and rules that are still -- unaccountably -- on the books of one jurisdiction or another. The title of the book is a case in point. It refers to the fact that it is an offense against the Municipal Code of Columbus, Georgia to let a chicken's head dangle within the city limits. Flouters of this particular law face a $25.00 fine and, no doubt, a stern lecture from the judge.

But Columbus has no corner on whacky laws pertaining to animals. In Little Rock, Arkansas, it is forbidden for dogs to bark after 6 p.m., while in California, house cats with itchy paws are subject to trespassing charges if they decide to hop the fence. Meanwhile, Californians of the human variety are committing a misdemeanor if they are caught "detaining homing pigeons".

All of which pales beside the Great Monkey Trial of South Bend, Indiana in which a monkey named George was tried -- and convicted -- of smoking a cigarette in public. The simian felon was fined $25.00 and court costs.

Not all American wildlife suffers under the yoke of Law. Now you take ducks. They enjoy the protection of a Federal Regulation that makes it illegal for ducks to be shot -- by any U.S. Postmaster.

California is even more legislatively protective of its creatures great and small -- especially small. Did you know that, thanks to a law still on the California books, it is technically illegal to set a mousetrap in that state, unless you have a hunting licence?

Stands to reason, I guess -- California is the home of Mickey, Minnie and all those other little cartoon rodents.

For a country that bills itself as "the home of the free" the U.S. certainly has a lot of strange "it is illegal to" laws.

If you live in Bexley, Ohio IT IS ILLEGAL to install slot machines in your outhouse.

If you live in Spokane, Washington IT IS ILLEGAL to sell lollipops.

If you live in Louisiana IT IS ILLEGAL to gargle in public.

If you live in Detroit, IT IS ILLEGAL to fall asleep in your own bathtub.

If you live in West Virginia IT IS ILLEGAL to sneeze on a train.

There is also a category of what I would call "Mind-bender" legislation -- this for instance, from Kansas: "When two trains approach each other at a crossing, both shall come to a full stop and neither shall start up again until the other has gone."

Well, if Casey Jones had done that, he never would have had his problem...

By the way, if you're feeling all smug and superior about the stupid laws Americans still have on their books -- don't. We're just getting to the Canadian section where you will discover:

- that in Vancouver no one may operate a tricycle at speeds in excess of ten miles per hour.

- that all bicycle riders in Edmonton must signal with the arm before making a turn -- though said riders must keep both hands on the handlebars at all times.

- that under an anti-noise bylaw, Ottawa forbids bees to buzz within city limits.

- that it is against the law to operate camels on the roads of British Columbia.

Wednesday, October 29, 1986

There is a character in the Dickens novel Oliver Twist named Mister Bumble, who -- like the rest of us -- finds himself blindsided one day by the workings of the law. Mister Bumble picks himself up, slaps his hat against his pantleg and sniffs: "...the law is a ass, a idiot."

Mister Bumble was pompous and foolish and henpecked and no hell at grammar...but when it came to understanding Law, I think even Poundmaker would admit the man spoke with an unforked tongue.

Making people laugh keeps them young

What's a 73 year old former librarian and member of the Boy Scouts Auxiliary doing hiking up her dress on stage and pulling down her red and white striped bloomers to reveal a monstrous boil on her behind.

Having fun. That's what Doris Brown of Lutterworth Estates is doing. And, with her husband Ham, they're enjoying every minute of it.

The couple have been presenting this unique brand of entertainment and humour for 20 years now. Most recently they have catered to seniors' audiences with gentle humour, song and warm observations on the world around them. Doris recites a number of humorous dissertations, one entitled "Bessy's Boil". It's a favourite among those who have seen her routine. The rhyming narrative recounts how a country woman comes to a city hospital to have a rather large boil attended to. She finds herself shuffled from office to office in this large hospital, showing the problem to a number of people dressed in white. In the end, she learns the hospital is being redecorated and all those people dressed in white to whom she showed her boil, were painters. Of course, at appropriate places in the recitation, Doris turns her backside to the audience to reveal the problem. The display always raised a howl from the crowd.

"People never seem to tire of that one," Doris explains. "If I try to get away without doing it, the audience won't let me off the stage." Doris' "boil" is a large rubber disc that fits under the striped bloomers. "I'm always careful to make sure I only pull down the bloomers doing the dissertation. I want to be buried with that boil," Doris adds.

While Doris' time on stage is spent with jokes and humorous rhyme, Ham, who is 81, follows with familiar songs and more humor. He's relatively new to the stage, only having recently joined his wife at the footlights. Dressed in a kilt, fashioned by Doris from a tablecloth, a sash and tam, his repertoire includes Scottish ballads and sing-along hits reminiscent of the English Music Halls.

Boring meeting

The couple moved to Minden from Keswick. It was then that Doris first discovered her ability to entertain. As a member of the Boy Scouts Ladies Auxiliary she found the group's meetings dreadfully dull. The others appeared to agree it was always a struggle to get enough people to attend. It was then she hit on the idea of enlivening the meetings by having each member relate a joke or amusing anecdote. The plan worked, and interest, along with attendance, grew.

From there, it wasn't so far to organizing an annual community pantomime show. The presentation became a popular fixture on the local entertainment scene, with such well known productions as Cinderella and Sleeping Beauty. She recalls one incident during the latter show, when Prince Charming bent over to kiss the sleeping princess. The actress was a bit of a ham, and as the prince's lips touched hers, she blew a large chewing gum bubble. The sticky gum became entangled in the prince's false moustache, resulting in a few hilarious minutes on stage as the two attempted to get out of their sticky situation.

The couple moved to Doris and Ham Brown enjoy the autumn sun outside their Lutterworth Estates home. The couple, enjoy life to the full, sharing their sense of humour to appreciative audiences in Haliburton County and Florida.

Minden five years ago, after a rather hasty, yet unregretted, decision. Doris and Ham were visiting a couple at Lutterworth Estates, friends they had met in Florida. While chatting with Bud and Muriel Medley, they learned there was a home for sale in the same subdivision. They looked the property over and in ten minutes decided to buy it. "All the way back to Keswick that day, we kept saying, 'What have we done,'" Doris recalls. However in two weeks they were able to sell their home in Keswick and become an active part of this community.

Heading south

The Browns head south in the winter, taking with them the props and costumes that are a part of their routine. They'll be performing these at various functions, helping out with Panama City charity efforts and entertaining their fellow snowbirds.

Here, during the summer, they appear at Deer Lodge on Lake Kashagawigamog, a resort which caters to seniors and at local functions on request. They're favoured entertainers at Hyland Crest Senior Citizens' Home in Minden.

The couple refuse to receive payment for their performances. "We're in this for the fun of it," Ham comments, although they both confess to pre-show butterflies. But once on stage, they're like old troupers, giving their all for the audience.

"The best thing an entertainer can have is the positive feedback from the audience," Doris commented. Laughter, applause, an emotional silence means more to these two performers than the potential for making money. "If we get paid, it would be work," he said. "It's kept us young, we're doing things and going places we never would have done if we hadn't taken to the stage," she added. "It's changed our lives."

Despite the lack of monetary compensation, the two have found their reward. Doris recalls that after one performance at Deer Lodge, an older woman approached them. "Money couldn't buy what you've done for me tonight," the lady related, "several months ago I lost my husband. You've taught me to laugh again. Thank you."

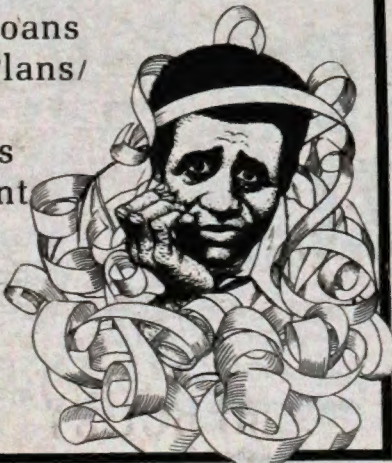

With feedback like that, it's easy to understand why Doris enjoys flashing her boil and Ham struts his numbers before appreciative audiences here and in Florida.

Area fisheries under review

The Ministry of Natural Resources is preparing long range plans for the management of the fisheries throughout the province. Districts within the Algonquin Region (an area covering Parry Sound, Muskoka, Algonquin Park, Bancroft and Renfrew County) have completed the first public involvement phase of the District Fisheries Management Planning process over the past summer.

Staff are currently analysing the response of the public to our proposed optional management strategies and tactics and will shortly be producing draft plans based on the input received in the first round of consultation. In order that we obtain the best results possible, we will be giving the public yet another opportunity to comment on our management direction.

Over the next four months, Algonquin Park, Bancroft, Bracebridge, Parry Sound and Pembroke Districts, as well as the Leslie M. Frost Natural Resources Centre, will be announcing public consultation sessions.

We urge you to come out, see what we've done and provide us with your comments.

Fleeing from Communists

daughter who was one year old then and between my wife and I, walked our other daughter, who was three and a half."

But even after the joy and relief of crossing into Austria, the Lohoczks and their 25 fellow escapees still had to walk 30 kilometres to the nearest village. But once they got there, they realized their troubles were over. "The Austrians," he says, "were pleased to see us and they treated us wonderfully."

For the first time in two days we had beds instead of straw to sleep on and real food to eat."

But the best welcome they had, he says, was in France.

"Some of us were sent to Nancy because the Austrians didn't have room for everyone. When we arrived in the new town, the whole population was there to greet us. Everyone was crying and it was one of the most beautiful things that ever happened to me."

When he was finally asked what country he and his family wanted to settle in, Lehoczy chose Canada. "We wanted to get as far away as we could from the Russians, and we heard that Canada was a good place. Also, we felt betrayed by the Americans, so we didn't want to go to the States."

After passing through customs in Halifax, the Lehoczy family were given five dollars ("which was a lot of money in those days - enough to buy a pair of shoes") and the choice of Montreal, Toronto or Vancouver as a final destination. They chose Toronto because it was in the middle of the country.

"The Canadian government was very generous," Lehoczy remembers. "On arrival, each member of the family was given a coupon worth a hundred dollars in clothing at Eaton's, Simpsons or the Hudson Bay Store. That was a lot of clothes."

His first job was as a welder on a job with a Hungarian foreman. But he soon learned English and the following year, Lehoczy started up a driving school. Over the next 22 years, his daughters grew into young women and his business prospered. Feeling that he could relax a bit, he sold the company in the late seventies and moved to Peterborough to open a ski hill. When that business didn't work as well as he had hoped, he took his family to Haliburton, where from experience of past holidays, he knew the country was beautiful and the pace of life relaxed. But the real clincher was the climate.

"We were visiting the village one day, trying to decide whether to buy land," he says, "and the sun was very hot. But I was standing in the shade and the temperature was cool. So we decided right then and there that this was where we wanted to live." Beaming a great smile, Lehoczy explains: "Haliburton has got to be the only place in this part of the country where there's no humidity."

Redmen win, but squeezed out of playoffs

First the good news. The Haliburton Highlands Secondary School Redmen trounced I.E. Weldon in Lindsay last week by a score of 29-0.

Now the bad news. In another game last week, LCVI beat Fenelon Falls 8-7, knocking Haliburton out of the playoffs for the 1986 season.

But Redmen coach Gary Brohman still thinks the team's record is one of the best. "We scored more points over the season than LCVI and if they hadn't beaten us twice, we'd be in the playoffs," Brohman said. He added that the Redmen finished the year with two losses and four wins and said he thought the 1986 team is better than Haliburton has had for many years.

The game against I.E. Weldon was a fitting end for the Redmen season.

Conditions were excellent all the way through. Ron Peron scored Haliburton's first touchdown in the first quarter with a pro-pass play from the four yard line and Alex Little kicked a perfect convert.

In the second quarter Redman Tran LaRue intercepted a pass, allowing Andrew Burk in the next play to run Haliburton's second touchdown. When the whistle blew at half-time, the score stood at 14-0 for Haliburton.

Early in the third quarter the Redmen tried for a field goal but Alex Little's kick went wide and the team got a single point.

In the final quarter, the Redmen made more great gains, intercepting a pass at the 25 yard line. Ian Cooper ran the ball into I.E. Weldon's end zone for Haliburton's third touchdown. And soon afterward, Andrew Burk scored the team's fourth and final touchdown - his second of the game - with a 25 yard run.

The coaches are pleased with an excellent season and congratulate the three Redmen captains, Mike MacNaull, Mike Blake and Craig Burke. These three boys, say the coaches, did an outstanding job of leading the team through the season and keeping morale up.

New bond issue available

- by Bill Scott, MP -

Canada Savings Bonds of the new series (S41) went on sale Monday, October 27, and no accrued interest will be charged when purchased up to and including Friday, November 7. However, as with past series of Canada Savings Bonds, the Minister of Finance reserves the right to terminate sales at any time at his discretion.

The Minister further announced that the rate of each of the last three issues of Canada Savings Bonds (S38 dated 1983, S39 dated 1984 and S40 dated 1985) has been adjusted to 7.75 per cent for the year beginning November 1, 1986. After this one year period, the guaranteed minimum annual rate for each of these series (7.00 per cent for S38 and S39 and 6.50 per cent for S40) will continue to apply.

The S35, S36 and S37 series will continue to earn interest at their annual minimum rate. For S35 and S36, this rate is 10.5 per cent. For S37, this rate is 8.5 per cent.

The new series will be dated November 1, 1986 and will again be offered in two forms - regular interest bonds which pay interest annually by cheque or direct deposit, and compound interest bonds, on which interest is left to accrue and compound annually.

Investors may cash the new bonds at any time, but it should be noted that no interest will be paid on bonds of this issue cashed during the initial three months from the November 1 date of issue; there will be no penalty for bonds redeemed after January 31, 1987. Interest on this series will accrue on a monthly basis.

In cases where regular interest bonds are redeemed during the months of September and October in any year, unearned interest will be deducted from the redemption proceeds and a full year's interest will be forwarded to the investor on the following November 1. This procedure facilitates the preparation of annual interest payments.

The bonds may be registered only in the name of bona fide residents of Canada, estates of deceased persons or a trust governed by certain types of deferred savings and income plans, including Registered Retirement Savings Plans, Registered Pension Plans, Deferred Profit Sharing Plans, Employee Profit Sharing Plans, Registered Retirement Income Funds and Registered Education Savings Plans.

No person may have a beneficial interest in this series greater than $75,000. However, there will be an exception to this purchase limit for holders of the 1977 78 (S32) and 1979 80 (S34) series of Canada Savings Bonds which mature this fall. Holders of these maturing series may convert the full principal component of the redemption proceeds into the new issue without affecting this year's purchase limit.

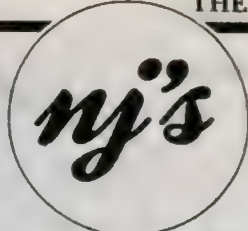

Investors may purchase their bonds at banks and other authorized sales outlets including investment dealers, stock brokers, trust and loan companies, credit unions and caisses populaires. In addition, some 10,000 firms and organizations across the country will operate payroll savings plans to permit employees to acquire bonds by payroll deduction.

Both types of bonds will be available for cash purchase. Only the compound interest bond is available under the payroll savings plan offered at many workplaces. The deadline for organizations offering the payroll savings plan to submit their bulk employee applications to an authorized issuing agent will be Friday, November 21, even if cash sales are terminated earlier. Investors are reminded that Canada Savings Bonds are no longer available through the monthly savings plan effective this year.

On compound interest bonds, accrued interest is compounded automatically after the first year. The rate at which compound interest is earned will be equal to the simple annual interest rate payable for that year.

Both types of bonds are registered as to principal and interest. Investors wishing to have annual bond interest deposited directly into their chequing or savings account may make the necessary arrangements where they normally bank. Both types of bonds will be offered in denominations of $300, $500, $1,000, $5,000 and $10,000, while a $100 bond will also be available in compound interest form, only. There is a limit of five bonds in the $100 denomination for each registered owner.

On behalf of the H.A.V.E. Committee, let me thank you for the support and interest that your newspaper has given our organization.

I would appreciate the opportunity to inform your readers about a new project that H.A.V.E. has taken on. This project is a little wider in scope than those concerned with water that we have undertaken in the past.

Early this year, we were informed about a rural health clinic in the Kovaput district of Orissa State in India. This clinic services tribal villages in a drought-stricken area. Gerry Feltham, on his most recent visit to India, spent time with Dr. Dondsena who runs the clinic. He returned very convinced that this is a project that H.A.V.E.

In addition to at least seven wells, the clinic needs a four wheel drive mobile health unit, a small base medical clinic, and trained people to run the clinics and teach para-professional staff who can help to bring medical knowledge and skill to the villages in this mountainous and poor area.

The committee has submitted the project to the Canada International Development Agency (C.I.D.A.) for matching funds. We have also decided to make this health clinic the focus of our Haliburton Artists Variety Evening this Saturday night. There will be photographs of this and our other projects on display. We urge those who have supported us to come and see the fruits of their efforts and to get excited about the new endeavour that we are undertaking.

Many excellent Haliburton County performers are donating their time and talents and they and the H.A.V.E. Committee would like a large and appreciative audience. The Rural Health Centre will allow our villages to help many villages in a very needy corner of the world.

Thank you.
Eric Lilius,

Rodents affect farm productivity says survey

- Ag report -

Recent surveys in Ontario indicate 89% of pork producers have rodent problems. Each live rat seen could indicate the presence of 10-20 more unseen. Each rat can eat 20 kg or more feed each year and spoil much more with its droppings. They cause insulation and structural damage and may cause electrical fires, but by far the greatest danger is as a carrier of disease into your herd. Rodents are recognized as carriers of approximately 45 diseases including Leptospirosis, Swine Dysentery, Trichinosis, Toxoplasmosis and Pasteurellosis. It pays to control them!

Under the Ontario Pork Industry Improvement Plan, an enrolled pork producer is eligible to receive a $250 grant on completion of a 12 month rodent control program by a professional licensed exterminator. Take advantage of it!

Hockey season opens

The Minden Men's Recreational Hockey League season began officially on Monday night with three fierce games.

In the first bout, Home Hardware beat The Times 9-6. With only three penalties, it was a close, well-played game that was neck and neck, right up until the end of the third period.

Home Hardware started with a bang by getting the two first goals, the first scored by Ken Casey and the second by John Barkwell. The Times answered with four consecutive goals by Dave Rogers, Jerry Campbell, Harold Cowen and Boomer Stamp.

Then Home Hardware responded with five consecutive goals by John Fedeski, John Barkwell (two), Dave Dollo and Ken Casey.

The Times answered with two more goals in the third period - bringing the score to 6-7 by Scott Reid and Boomer Stamp. But then Home Hardware's Dollo and Dean Hewitt promptly knocked two more into The Times' net, and that ended the game.

In the second game Monday night, Hall's Insurance thrashed Vasey Real Estate by a score of 10 to 2.

There were five penalties and Halls' led in goals right from the beginning. Halls' goals were collected by Lawrence Loughed, Dave Brown (two), Joe Mitchell (four), Rick Salmon and Jim Todd.

Vasey goals were had by Royce Miller and Barry Walker.

In the final game of the night, Hartwick Construction beat the Rockcliffe Foamblowers 11-6. There were only three penalties.

Hartwick led the game from the start by scoring the first three goals. Scorers were: Eldon Bull, Trent Lloyd and Sid MacKeigan.

Then before the end of the first period, Rockcliffe's Greg Carpenter knocked in one for his team.

And again at the start of the second period, Carpenter scored again. But he was answered by Eldon Bull, Gary Neilson and Brian Shaw who scored consecutive goals all in the second period for Hartwick.

Before the end of the period, Merv Mintz managed to get one more in for Rockcliffe and Brian Shaw one for Hartwick.

Goal scoring action in the third period was rapid. Hartwick's Shaw got the first, Rockcliffe's Kevin Hamilton knocked in the next two, Hartwick's Dan Geffross got the next and Doug Thain then scored for Rockcliffe. Hartwick players Shaw and Dan Read managed the last two goals of the game.

Juniors defeat Lindsay in season's final game

The Junior Redmen also ended their 1986 season with a satisfying win. In their game against I.E. Weldon last week, they racked up a score of 20-0.

"It was a good win," said Coach John Fitzgerald. "The defence dominated completely - I.E. Weldon only got two first downs in the whole game - and the offence did everything they were supposed to."

In the first quarter Jason Rowden kicked off for Haliburton. When I.E. Weldon fumbled the ball, Jeff Feero recovered it and the Redmen possessed it.

There were no gains in the second quarter, though Haliburton moved the ball well and I.E. Weldon couldn't move it at all.

In the second half, Haliburton punted and managed to stop the ball at I.E. Weldon's five yard line. Weldon passed in the next play but it was intercepted by Colin McKnight, who managed to run it back to their 25 yard line.

Later in the game, McKnight picked up another interception for Haliburton, but as things progressed, Redmen passes were also intercepted.

One of the highlights of the game, was Haliburton's razzle dazzle play - a reverse run by Feero through the backfield and passed to Brent Flood who scored the team's second touchdown, giving Haliburton its final 20 point score.

Coach John Fitzgerald singles out for particular credit offensive team players Jeff Feero, Jeff Francis and Cory Hynes. On the defense, recognition is extended to Colin McKnight, Robert Waller, Jason Rowden and Mark Robinson.

The team deserved to win this game Fitzgerald said. "They worked hard all the previous week, during lunch and after school. They're a remarkable bunch of guys and they never let us down."

The team played six games this season. Four were lost and two were won.

Closure application rejected by council

An application for closure of a road allowance in Lutterworth Township has been turned down. Lutterworth council refused the request to close the unopened allowance leading to Gull Lake from Highway 35 on Lot 11 at their October meeting.

"We have a policy to leave road allowances open for future use," said Clerk-Treasurer Wayne Hughes, "though there are extenuating circumstances." But in this instance there were no such circumstances, added Hughes.

The application for the road allowance closure was submitted with a request for a shoreline allowance closure, which was accepted.

In 1980, Transport Canada set standards for equipping new vehicles incorporating passive protection in bus design, mandating stronger seats with higher backs and energy absorbing padding. Tests were conducted with dummies restrained by lap belts and findings showed "more severe head and neck injuries than those travelling unbelted. Unbelted dummies moved forward off the

In seeking lap-belt alternatives, tests are taking place with contoured seat backs and five point harnesses. A bus equipped with lap belts and rear facing seats has been on trial use. Once the test phase ends, a

While the traditional Hallowe'en celebration does not take place until Friday, Minden Minor Hockey Association got a jump on the festivities by holding their annual masquerade ball Saturday evening at Minden Community Centre. Ghosts and goblins were few in number, however, there were a number of nattily attired individuals including Steve and Val Lougheed and Dave and Cheryl Bathe.

Minden well represented at horticultural meeting

by Nancy Cook and Marian Ingram

The annual meeting of the District No. 4 Horticultural Society was held Saturday, October 18 in Peterborough at Sir Sandford Fleming College and hosted by Colborne & South Haldimand branches.

There were 16 Societies present and each president gave a two minute speech of their outstanding accomplishments of the 1986 season. It was very interesting and we might be prejudiced, but we thought our president, Illa Cooper's speech was the best.

We were well represented by Illa Cooper, Evelyn Trepanier, Nancy Cook, Marian Ingram, Bob and Peggy Harrington and Dick and Laura Kirkwood.

The new officers for 1987 are: President - Madeline Hobson, Director - Jim Trotter, Assistant Directors - Florence Brown, Doris Cole and Berle Harris.

After the election, Larry Lenhardt of Lindsay presented his slides of China where he spent a month this summer. He said it was difficult to work in the heat which is 140 degrees sometimes that is why they work in the morning and early evening, because, as we all know, they do everything by hand. They have peach and apple orchards and he was instructing them on how to get better yields.

They also have large strawberry farms which they pick while still white, because they spoil fast in the heat and they don't have refrigeration to keep them, so they make jam as soon as possible.

Mr. Lenhardt had excellent slides and you felt that you had been to China when it was over. He also said he had many more slides, that time didn't permit him to show, and he would be glad to come to any Horticultural Meeting to present them.

After a delicious lunch, the director, Madeline Hobson gave an address touching on dates to remember for next year such as the O.H.A. Photo competition to be held March 31, 1987 and a Garden Festival in April at the Home Show in Toronto. She also reminds us of the O.H.A. Convention in Kingston next June.

Anyone who attended this year's convention in Peterborough will be really looking forward to this, as it is a most wonderful event. One thing to remember for this year is that entries for the Royal Winter Fair must be in before 10 a.m. November 12.

Mrs. Hobson also mentioned an award called the Silver Trillium which is given to individuals whom the members feel have given much of their time and effort to their particular organization.

A competition was held by the Juniors, it was a 500 word essay on any horticultural subject and it was won by a young lady named Mary-Jo who wrote about her experiences growing a 125lb pumpkin.

Back in the auditorium we listened to a very enlightening talk by Ross Hawthorne, who is, among other things, related to horticultural, a newspaper columnist and radio announcer. His topic concerned the way in which we are poisoning our earth with the various chemicals which we use to kill weeds and unwanted insects.

One interesting revelation was the fact $360 million dollars is spent on weed control in Canada and the USA each year mainly consisting of the chemical 2-4D, a most damaging substance, some of the effects of which are still uncertain. He pointed out that the storing of Weed and Feed in our grocery stores is a serious health hazard by its contaminating effects on the produce. If we see this in a store we should request that they at least remove it to the outside of the building.

He pointed out that even the potting soil we buy for our indoor plants can be contaminated and that it is best to use a soilless mixture called Pro-Gro which is 60% peat, 20% vermiculite, 20% perlite. It never goes mouldy and it can be used indefinitely. It also alleviates the problem of over watering. He believes the best fertilizer is 10-52-10 which is sold by Safer Ltd., a natural garden product.

There are also plants which have been developed to resist disease and insect infestation. Three of these are the tomatoes - Ultra Girl, Better Boy and Wonder Boy.

In his closing summary, he informed us that they have invented an earwig trap that attracts the female of the species and putting corn syrup on a yellow card will attract and kill white fly. Afterwards, a question and answer period was held and this could have gone on indefinitely, but it was time to adjourn and end a very interesting day.

Many services available to your families in Minden

Faith Aggett

When you become parents for the first time, or just move into a new area with a young family, it is often hard to find out what programmes are available for children and adults. This is especially true in a rural area.

In Minden, we are very fortunate in the growing accent on the young family. In the past year we have been able to add several new support systems to the older tried and proven. Now, depending on the type of support needed, we can offer just about equal service found in an urban centre and we are still working to improve. The following is a list of what Minden and surrounding area has to offer.

If it is socialization and stimulation that is needed for both child and parent, the CHACE resource centre, located on Main Street, where parent and child can meet with other families and share the child-oriented setting would suffice.

If it is the occasional babysitting that is required, a co-op babysitting group is formed in Minden and works on a "return favour" basis.

If it is a more permanent program that is appealing, there is, for a limited fee and active participation by parents, a playschool group that offers a one and a half hour session twice a week at the Anglican Church. Crafts, games and stories are some of the regular activities.

If parents are wanting less involvement on their part, CHACE Private Home Day

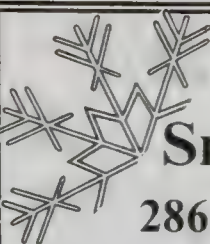

CHACE Inc. is now able to offer a half day pre-school program through the CHACE Private Home Day Care Program in Minden. But spaces are limited.

For those needing full time care for their children, because of work, or educational upgrading, CHACE PHDC again would be the agency to contact about a convenient placing in one of their several locations.

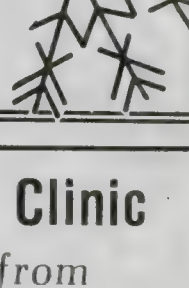

Information regarding any of these services could be acquired by calling CHACE resource centre 286-1770.

Whichever child care course the parent intends to take, certain questions should be asked to ensure both the parent and child that they will have the best of care to meet their needs. Next week's article will cover What to Look for When Looking for Child Care.

Hi Kids!!

Here is another puzzle for you with a word list. Look in the diagram of letters for the words given in the list. Find them by reading up, down, forward, backward and diagonally. They are all in a straight line and do not skip letters. Circle the words in the diagram and cross it off in the list.

It's as easy as that. Have fun!

Well folks, another week has flown past. It will soon be Christmas. Our service in the chapel Sunday evening was taken by Rev. J. Burgess, assisted by Mr. Thompson. On Tuesday morning the pastor didn't appear, so Doris took charge. It was very nice.

The movies Monday night were "Pathways in the Sky" "Piece of Cake" and "People of Venice."

Sorry to have report another resident has passed away, Mrs. Annie Cox. She will be greatly missed.

Mrs. Nesbitt and Edna Cowan are home from hospital. Mrs. Shuyler is still in Peterborough hospital. I understand she will soon be home.

Mrs. Buttery had her sister for lunch and visit on Friday. The C.W.L. ladies from Haliburton Catholic Church brought the tea party lunch on Thursday. It was lovely and included a beautiful birthday cake. Some of the folks from here attended the Induction Service at Norland Baptist Church on Thursday night. There was a large crowd. Mr. Fogwell and family were made very welcome by the community at large.

George and Jean Hewitt were in on Friday to see her mother for a short visit. Mr. and Mrs. Wes Jewell called on Charlie Brohm during the week.

Doris took some of us on a short bus ride on the nice days to Bobcaygeon and back. We enjoyed it.

Ron and Pat Welch of Frankford were at Hyland Crest Sunday to visit with Ron's mother Edith Welch and aunt Carrie Jones.

"How the gallant spirit sings if we can smile at bitter things."

Bowlers want help

Concerned that the rent paid by the Minden Lawn Bowlers for the use of their building is going up by $25 a month. Mr. Ev Rudd requested financial assistance from Anson, Hindon and Minden at the October 14 municipal council meeting.

The building is on the Bobcaygeon Road and is owned by the Agricultural Society.

Mr. Rudd, a member of the lawn bowling club, said he was also unhappy that the club could not negotiate with the society a lease of longer than one year.

Council is to consider the matter.

Branch 129

by Gerald Irish

On Saturday, October 25, Branch Secretary, Comrade Jack Bassett represented Branch 129 at the Haliburton Highlands Secondary School Honours and awards night. On behalf of the Branch, Comrade Jack represented the Haliburton Region Scholarship of $100 to Heidi Tashlin, the Haliburton Legion Bursary of $200 to Tracy Harrison, and the Haliburton Legion Scholarship for auto mechanics of $50 to John Waugh, for electricity $50 to Peter Howarth and for machine shop $50 to Greg Hallman.

Branch 129 honoured its Associate Members with a dinner and dance last Friday evening. The guest speaker at the dinner was Murray Fearrey, Reeve of the Municipality of Dysart et al. In his usual style, Reeve Fearrey gave an excellent address - humorous and inspiring. Following the excellent dinner, the membership there enjoyed dancing to the music provided by D.J. Ed Whiteway.

Last Saturday night the Ladies Auxiliary of Branch 129 hosted the L.A. Zone Fun Night. Many humorous skits were put on by various branches. Everyone had a great time.

On Sunday your branch was well represented at the service of Remembrance at Brechin. The Legion in Brechin held a very moving service with a total of 24 wreaths being laid. One of the wreaths was placed by Branch 129 President Joan Irish on behalf of the Haliburton Legion. Branch Sergeant at Arms, Comrade Irv Chambers had the distinct honour of being asked to lead the marching unit. And, as usual, Irv did a great job.

There will be an Executive Meeting this Thursday at 7:30 p.m.

Did you attend or have you talked with someone who did attend the President's Ball in July? At that ball, music was provided by the Frank Howard Orchestra, the same group that will be playing for the Legion's New Year's Dance. Tickets for this dance go on sale soon at $25 a couple. This admission price is for the dance, party favours, and a beautiful New Year's Buffet. Get your tickets soon. Don't be disappointed.

Watch for the new Legion Bluegrass sign which will be going up soon. As you drive into the village past the High School, look up. It is quite impressive. I can hardly wait to see it in place.

New titles at library prepared by County Librarian Joel Levis

The following titles are just a few of the many added to the collection of the Haliburton County Public Library Board during the past weeks. They are available through any branch of the Haliburton County Public Library.

Drop in and see how big we really are!

Bradford, Barbara Taylor Act of Will - The sweeping drama of three generations of women, each of whom commit an act of will that has an irreversible effect on their lives and their destinies. This is certain to be mini-series material in the near future.

The Toy Report - As inevitable as the Christmas catalogue and just as welcome, your most valuable guide to wise toy purchase decisions this year. Extra copies available to meet your very special needs.

Judith Krantz - I'll take Manhattan: Only Judith Krantz could put together a book like this. Fans have been waiting for this one for quite some time and they won't be disappointed.

Alan Hamilton - The Royal Family: Absolutely more than you could ever have wanted to know about all members of the Royal family.

Edgar McInnis: Canada: A political & Social History: The definitive general Canadian history book specially updated by Michael Horn. It is not the final word on any questions relating to our history but it is the best general direction to work on the subject which is currently available.

Wilbur Smith - Power of the Sword: A thrilling adventure that takes place during two decades of dramatic history which moves from South African oldfields to the Olympic stadium in Berlin in 1936 to the raging skies over the hills of Abyssinia. Epic fiction by a master of his craft.

James Strong - Strong's

Exhaustive Concordance of the Bible - As a guide to the King James Version of the Bible, this will prove to be invaluable for those trying to find a special quote or a particular verse. The words of Jesus are printed in red text.

Charles Templeton - The Queen's Secret: They talked about this one on CBC's Morningside and the requests began to roll into the library. Do you recall a few years ago when Michael Fagan climbed over the wall and ended up in the Queen's bedroom? Templeton takes it a step further in a fictitious setting when the intruder doesn't go quite as quietly as Fagan did.

Paul Theroux - O-Zone: Theroux is widely known for his travel books - mostly on trains - but he has also written considerably in the area of essays and general fiction. This is a novel of the future that will probably rival Huxley and Orwell in its own way. He previously wrote The Mosquito Coast.

Remember, these books are available through any one of the nine branches of the Haliburton County Public Library which are located in Haliburton (Dysart), Stanhope, Minden Gooderham (Glamorgan), Wilberforce (Monmouth), Lochlin (Snowdon) Highland Grove, Cardiff (Bicroft) and Dorset.
